MRS. LARSEN IS HELD FOR MURDER

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SWEARS TO COMPLAINT—EXONERATED BY CORONER'S JURY.

GOLDFIELD, Oct. 25.—Relying principally on the testimony of the widow of Mike Kennedy, who was shot a week ago today by Mrs. Margaret Larsen and died several days later at the Miners' Union hospital, the coroner's jury late yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. Mrs. Kennedy, weak and distracted and almost beside herself with grief, took the stand at the inquest and stated that she had called Mrs. Larsen to her assistance just before the shooting, her husband being at the time in a dangerous condition as the result of drink, and that he resented the intrusion by calling the neighbor a vile name, following such up with physical abuse.

The witness stated that upon a vicious blow being placed on Mrs. Larsen's face by Kennedy, she ran for her life and observed nothing of the events transpiring immediately after, hearing only the shots as she ran from the scene.

The only witness giving testimony at the inquest favoring an action by the State was Mrs. McKune, a resident of the neighborhood in which the murder was committed. Mrs. McKune stated that she was putting some washing on the line in the rear of her home and on hearing a shot turned and observed Mrs. Larsen pursuing Kennedy and firing the while from a revolver. Mrs. McKune figured in the Preston-Smith murder trial, giving testimony for the defense to the effect that J. O. Bliss, who claimed to have observed the killing of John Silva and who proved to be an important witness for the prosecution in that matter, was at her home at the exact time that he claimed to have been on the scene of the shooting that resulted in the confinement of Preston and Smith in the Carson prison.

On the return of the verdict Larsen and his wife were dismissed from custody. District Attorney Swallow, however, is considering the advisability of preferring another complaint in the matter.

Senator H. V. Morehouse appeared in behalf of the Larsens at the inquest. A complaint was sworn out this morning at the direction of the district attorney against Mrs. Larsen, charging her with murder. She was subsequently arrested and placed in the custody of the sheriff. Her preliminary examination will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HEINZE NOT A BIT TROUBLED

MAN WHO HANDED IT TO ROGERS IS STILL IN THE GAME.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—"I've had to fight ever since I put my hands on a piece of copper ore, and I'm used to trouble."

Sitting on his desk, munching a sandwich and swinging his feet with the abandon of a happy school boy, Fritz Augustus Heinze, central figure in the spectacular drama in Wall street, remarked only what the whole world knows when he said that he was "used to trouble."

It is eighteen years since the strapping youth of 20, his only asset his education as an engineer in the Columbia school of mines, started out West to make his fortune. In that time he has wrested millions from the rich copper veins of Montana, and has spent millions humbling the Standard Oil group of financiers; he has plunged into their own game in Wall street, and perhaps has sat in it too long for the good of his own pile of chips; but in all that time the boyish appearing copper man has been fighting, always fighting. And what would the world know of F. Augustus Heinze were it not for his fights?

So it was not surprising that he should answer, when asked if he is prepared to stay in the fight in Wall street:

"I am always prepared for trouble."

"Are your intentions to remain in New York unchanged?"

"I have not the slightest intention of spending any less time in New York than usual," was Heinze's eventful reply. "I will probably be here a little longer this trip than I intended, but I like New York and do not mind staying here, because aside from the development interests in the west which need my attention, I have no interest greater than to preserve my interests in New York, which are growing daily, despite what may seem to be very adverse circumstances."

It is an unusual mood, or tense that induces F. Augustus Heinze to give an interview. In the great battles which won him fame as the only man who ever made Standard Oil kneel, Heinze seldom said a word for print. One who did not know him well would have expected to find him in no mood to talk.

But that is just where even Henry H. Rogers underestimated the force of character of his foe. In the midst of financial stress Heinze is as imperturbable as he was when Rogers sent for him and demanded to know what was his price for surrender. The young copper king remarked that he came to listen to proposals, not to make them. Rogers suggested $250,000. Heinze simply put on his hat and started to go. Rogers raised to nearly $10,000,000 before the session ended.

With nerve unbroken, with wits sharpened by his ten years of ceaseless warfare in Montana, the young giant, interloper in the game of finance, sits unflinchingly as he sees his enemy take the trick of the Mercantile bank. To observe his nonchalance one would not suspect that he has even an interest in the game, or that last week's events were part of an effort to freeze him out for revenge.

While the busy clerks and messengers dashed back and forth in the Heinze offices at 42 Broadway, Heinze himself ate a chicken sandwich and sipped a cup of tea as he sat at his desk, yawned and complained that it was such a fine day for automobiling that one shouldn't spend it in an office. The sandwich done, Heinze seated himself before his desk again, lighted a cigar and listened.

"Do you think you have been 'double-crossed' by some of your financial associates?"

"That is a term used in connection with human endeavor that does not have the sanction of honorable men, if I understand it correctly," Heinze replied, "and we are all honorable men down this way."

Having expressed his confidence in the stability of his New York investments, Mr. Heinze was asked:

"Then you do not consider you have been 'handed a lemon,' as some of the headlines expressed it?"

"No; I would say rather it was like ordering some sweets from the candy shop and on opening the package finding that the clerk had made a mistake and put in lemon drops—a little sour, but with some sweet mixed with it."

And with this enigmatical reply, Heinze yawned, relit his cigar and went to work on some papers on his desk.

LOOK AROUND YOUR OFFICE

For ledgers, daybooks, in fact for anything that may be lacking in your office, go to the Bonanza bindery. We have samples of the style of work which is turned out, but for the matter of that one does not have to visit the bindery. There are samples of our work in nearly all the offices in the city.

Our work stands as the best recommendation of the character of the stuff that we turn out. We can do anything in our line that can be done in any of the big cities, can do it as well, and give better service in the matter of prompt delivery than any other institution of the kind in the State.

Give us a trial. We will do the rest.

RICH PLACERS AT RAWHIDE.

The latest sensation in this section of the State is the camp of Rawhide, about 55 miles south of Wonder, and about 25 miles to the northwest of Schurz, on the Tonopah railroad. Chas. Kleeman of the K. & C. Stage Company was in Wonder this week with some soft rock from Rawhide which showed much free gold. Mr. Kleeman says that two men who are doing placer mining on a lease are cleaning up a thousand dollars a day in coarse gold.—Wonder News.

GIRL WINS LANDS.

Horse and Buggy Enables Girl to Get Land.

LEWISTON, Ida., Oct. 26.—A long distance telephone message, an accommodating friend proved a winning combination for Miss Madge Murch, for it was with their aid that she secured a valuable homestead.

Miss Murch lives in Pierce City, Idaho, where she has gained a knowledge of timber from observation. She recently decided to file on a quarter section clothed with valuable timber, and securing the numbers, she started for the Lewiston land office ready to file.

At Stites, where Miss Murch was to board the train, she learned that a man expected to board the same train with the same object in view. She decided to invoke the aid of a Lewiston friend, and calling up Mrs. J. B. West of Lewiston on the telephone, she explained her predicament and invited help. Mrs. West is the wife of a former register in the land office and knows the necessity of alertness in such cases.

Mrs. West met Miss Murch at the train with a horse and buggy and the horse was driven at break neck speed to the land office, where Miss Murch, announced her intention of filing on the quarter, giving her section number to the register, who furnished her with the blanks.

Just as she secured the papers a young man entered the office, exhausted by a run from the depot, and asked to file on the same quarter section. He was two minutes too late, as Miss Murch had won. The young man refused to give his name, but left the office a very much disappointed man.

NEIL ANXIOUS TO MEET MORAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—Frankie Neil is more than anxious to clash with Owen Moran, in order to show the sporting public that he is able to hold his own with the best that England as in the boxing line. Neil says that he is a fighter and not a boxer, and lays the blame for his defeat at the hands of Jim Bowker to the clean breaks which prevail across the water. "I don't shine in these pink-tea scraps," said Frankie, "but when it comes to slam-bang slugging and fighting every inch of the journey, I'm there with bells. If Moran consents to fight me, he will see a different sort of a man in the ring than when I faced Bowker in London."

WORLD'S LARGEST PURSE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Nominations for the Paris Grand Prix of 1937 have been published, and two Americans, W. K. Vanderbilt and Perry Belmont will figure prominently in the event. Vanderbilt has no less than seventeen subscriptions, and Belmont has named six American colts by Ethelbert. Taken in every way the 1937 Grand Prix will be a record breaker. The stakes alone will amount to $60,000, the biggest sum offered for a horse race in any country in the world.
